A Message from Thack

You know you are getting older when:
Your back goes out more than you do.
You know the lyrics to every Rolling Stones album. (Yikes!)
You enjoy hearing about other people's operations.
People call you at 9:00 p.m. and ask, "Did I wake you?"
You take a metal detector to the beach.
You wear black socks with sandals.
Your ears are hairier than your head.

How do you feel today? Do you feel your age? I pose these questions because with high school and college graduations upon us, many of you may be feeling like time has gotten away from you.

Seriously, many people become depressed as they age because they equate the aging process with productivity and value. Many older people don't feel they are as useful as they once were because they aren't nearly as mentally sharp, strong, and agile as they were in their youth. It's as if their self-worth diminishes as they celebrate another birthday.

If you feel this way, then the Lord has some good news for you! The good news is that regardless of age, you are still a part of God's plan. We see this in the story of Abraham and Sarah from the Book of Genesis. If you recall, God told them that they would be the parents of nations. This was a neat trick when you consider that they were 99 and 90 years old, respectively, when they began to raise this family!

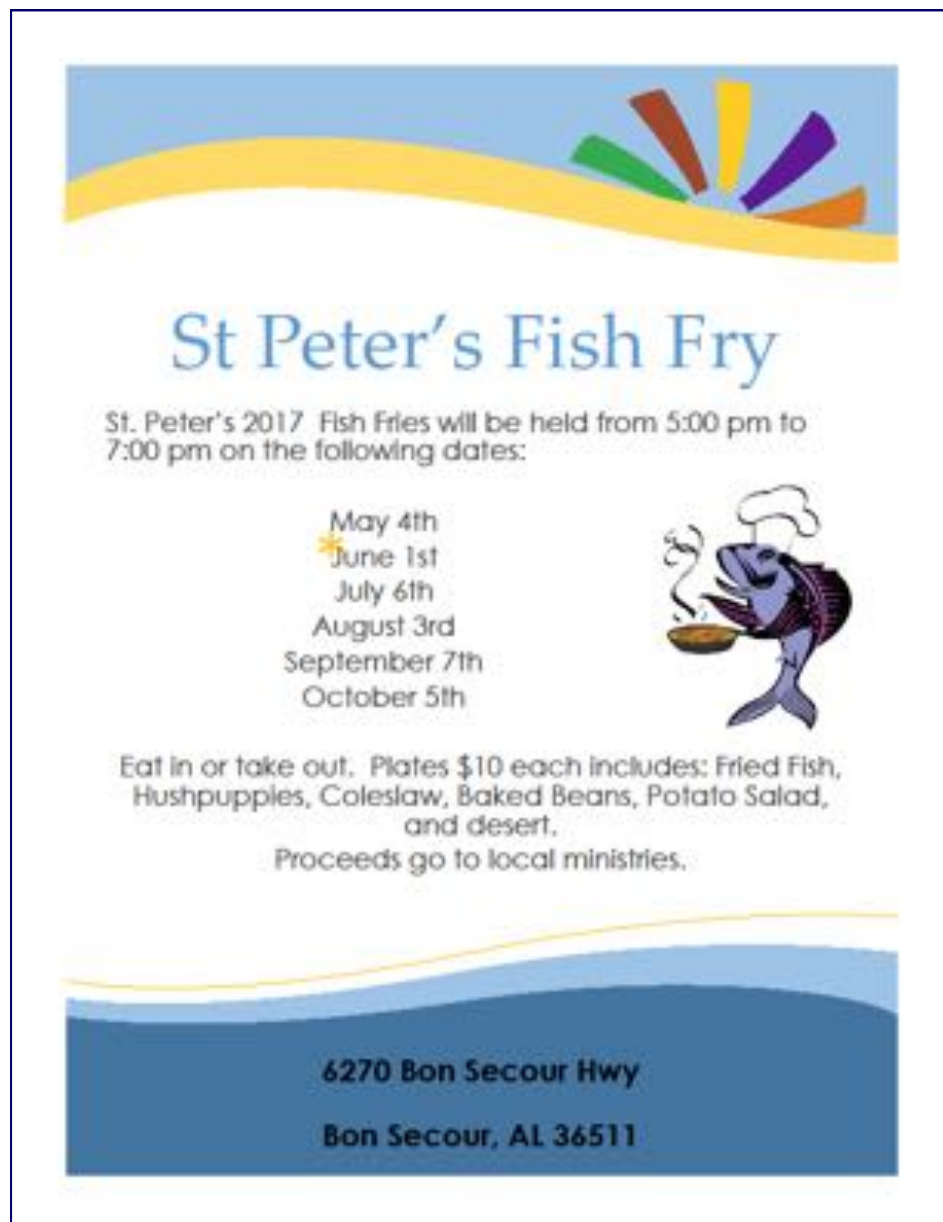

Now I'm not suggesting that those of you who are bumping 70, 80 or 90 may become parents again. But Abraham and Sarah's story reminds us that age is irrelevant when it comes to God's plans for us. Their story also reminds us that we cannot pick the time or the season for God to reveal His purposes. Who knows? Regardless of your age and station in life, you may not yet be the person God created you to be.

When you start to "feel your age" and think that your options in life may be rapidly declining, then remember the story of Abraham and Sarah. God is never finished with a life regardless of the age of the person. And while His plans are often unexpected, we are never too old to realize His hopes and dreams for us.

Peace, Thack

Congratulations to Our Students!

Congratulations to the following students: John Bryant for graduating from Bayside Academy and for being admitted into the freshman class at Auburn University; Madeline Marie Ellison for graduating from Fairhope High School; Lauren Erdman for graduating from Bayside Academy and being accepted into the freshman class at the University of Alabama; Skye Harrison for graduating from Fairhope High School and for being accepted into the freshman class at Auburn University; Olivia Lyons for graduating from Fairhope High School and for being accepted into the freshman class at Samford University; Sahra El-Hamaki for graduating from Florida Atlantic University. Sahra will attend nursing school in the fall; Matt Harris for receiving his Masters in Law (LLM) degree in Criminal Law from Georgetown University; Tom Shoultz, who will be an Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Texas Southwest and an attending surgeon at Parkland Memorial Hospital, Dallas, Texas, upon completion of his surgical fellowship in July at the University of Washington in Seattle; Jayne Sharp for graduating from the University of South Alabama with a Masters in School Counseling; David Chavers, PhD, for completing the doctoral program in Psychology at the University of South Alabama and for his new positions of staff psychologist with the Veteran's Administration in Pensacola and Biloxi; and Walker Jackson for joining the Alabama National Guard. Congratulations to all of you and may God continue to direct your paths.

The poster features a decorative header with a yellow wavy line and several colorful, fan-like shapes in green, red, yellow, and purple. The title "St Peter's Fish Fry" is written in a large, blue, serif font. Below the title, the text "St. Peter's 2017 Fish Fries will be held from 5:00 pm to 7:00 pm on the following dates:" is displayed. A list of dates follows: May 4th, June 1st, July 6th, August 3rd, September 7th, and October 5th. To the right of the dates is a cartoon illustration of a purple fish wearing a white chef's hat and holding a small brown bowl. Below the dates, the text "Eat in or take out. Plates $10 each includes: Fried Fish, Hushpuppies, Coleslaw, Baked Beans, Potato Salad, and desert." is written. Below this, it says "Proceeds go to local ministries." The bottom of the poster has a blue wavy line and a dark blue rectangular box containing the address "6270 Bon Secour Hwy" and "Bon Secour, AL 36511" in white text.

Calling All Want-To-Be Cooks---6th-12th graders!

Wouldn't you love to prepare an elegant four-course meal for five or six of your friends or your family? Just imagine their expressions when they see what YOU can do all by yourself! Here's the plan: Sign up for a one-week cooking course (July 31-August 4) from 4:00-6:00 in Malone Hall. What will you learn? Table setting, serving etiquette, measuring, reading recipes, table decorating, and prayer writing. For our meal, we will prepare appetizers, salads, entrees, and desserts. Each cook will be in charge of one table on serving night, August 4, at 6:00. Class size is limited to 6-8 cooks. Sign up early by calling Beverly Koepp @ 404-3980, or email Beverly at bkoepp@bcbe.org.

FAMILY PROMISE: We will be having families again beginning Saturday, May 21, leaving Sunday, May 28, which is Memorial Day weekend. It can be a little more difficult to schedule on holidays so please look at your calendars and see if you will be in town. It would be fun too if we could have a holiday picnic for them as well, with games outside to celebrate Memorial Day. Too often the folks don't have the opportunity to participate in celebrations. St. Paul's Thrift Shop, By Jessica Sawyer

It may look small, but St. Paul's Episcopal Thrift Shop on Main Street in Daphne is mighty. The shop is celebrating its 40th anniversary in late April, along with its success in giving almost $1.3 million back to the local community.

The shop — the largest ministry at St. Paul's — was launched as a way to support the church.

"There were a few ladies back in 1977 who were concerned about the finances of St. Paul's. It was a tiny church then," said Jane Shoultz, who chairs the shop's board. "They went into their attics and got things down and started a little thrift shop, if you could call it that at the time."

Initially, it was open only on Fridays and Saturdays. "And there were days when they made 75 cents," Shoultz said. "After a while, $75 would blow them out of the water for the weekend."

Once the women had maxed out on the things that they could sell or give away, they began accepting donations that could be resold.

"I've heard stories of women who would bring in their husband's overalls still dirty from the field and muddy boots," said Linda Monley, shop manager. And the women at the shop, she said, "would actually wash and spot-clean and iron, clean the boots, and sell this stuff."

These days, the doors are open Tuesday through Saturday, and donations arrive in such volume that the shop is always full of merchandise. It's grown to the point that many donations are kept at a leased warehouse space nearby.

"This warehouse has been an amazing gift to us because we don't have the room in the shop to display furniture," Shoultz said.

Big-ticket furniture sales can be a boon for a thrift shop, as Shoultz pointed out: "Two-hundred and fifty dollars for a sofa? We've got to sell a lot of blouses and skirts to add up to that."

It's certainly a far cry from the early days of washing muddy overalls.

Although the shop employs a manager, assistant manager and part-time "muscle power" for lifting donated furniture, it is run primarily by volunteers.

With relatively few expenses, the shop is able to give 75 percent of its sales proceeds to the church and the community, with each receiving an equal share. This year, local community groups will be getting $129,000.

"We have different agencies that we work with, the prime one being Prodissee Pantry," said Shoultz. "They screen people there for food donations and in talking to the people if they find folks who are in need of clothing or housewares, or furniture or linens, they fill out a voucher for them and the individual comes in and we give them the things that they need."

Reflecting on the shop's 40-year milestone, Shoultz said, "I think it took fortitude to start the shop, but I think more than that it took a tremendous amount of fortitude to continue." She said, "It was such a small group, they had to be pretty strong-willed to keep it going."

Christian Education, by Elizabeth Faust

Last Sunday was our parish picnic and what a Sunday it was! I was overwhelmed with generosity from everyone willing to add to our special day so thank you!! I also really want to thank Howard Wilson and the rest of the Men's group for everything they did, from cooking, to transporting tables to and from the park and for even bringing a big grill out there! Without you guys, we wouldn't have been able to pull it off! Also thank you to Liz Ray and Kristina McKenna for taking care of our kiddos in Children's Chapel while I was running back and forth all morning! It takes a village to pull off a big event like that and I am so grateful for everyone who helped out and came out to fellowship!

A FEW Quick CHRIS ED ANNOUNCEMENTS

8:00 Chapel is not meeting until mid-August. Every summer we take a small break as we are preparing for VBS and many of you are vacationing anyway! The nursery will still be available and there will be a small activity for them. You can also still join us for the 10:30 service!

New Faces in the Nursery! This summer we will be adding to our Nursery Staff... we are also encouraging parents to take a turn volunteering for a week or two out of the summer. Mamas, if you feel the call please let me know!

THANK YOU to everyone who has donated to our snack supply over the last couple of months. Our little ones have been so blessed by your generosity and creativity too!

Congratulations to Skye Li Harrison, Madeline Marie Ellison, Jayne Sharp, John Bryant, Olivia Lyons, and Lauren Erdman on your graduations!!!! We will be lifting you up this Sunday at both services!

Registration has begun for VBS and MAD Camps as well as for volunteers! We will meet June 11th after the 10:30 service to plan for Vacation Bible School.
